

Call for Entry: United by Verse

Entry deadline: February 19, 2024

Exhibition: March 24-May 4, 2024

For centuries, poets and visual artists have inspired one another, forging creative collaborations and developing new expressions of meaning and creativity.

Ekphrastic poetry, for example, are poems written about works of art. Haiga is a Japanese concept in which a painting is combined with a haiku poem. Some artists find inspiration in the metaphors, feelings, rhythm or themes in favorite poems.

For this exhibition, artists are invited explore the possibilities of uniting verse with their art in some fashion. Both elements may be the work of one artist or the result of a collaboration. Poetry may be incorporated into the artwork, but is not required. Poems may be original pieces or published, in either case attribution is required. Creative and unexpected connections and interplay are encouraged. 2-D and 3-D works welcome in all media. With submission of artwork, please also include a copy of the poem with author attribution.
